Moving Day dates

This officer would like to move into the larger storage unit in the month of May. We would begin paying for our larger space in May however our rent was waived Jan-March giving us a credit of $129.00. This indicates that we would be paying the last two month of the sorority year with a credit and not going over budget for the 2017-18 sorority year. Once approved I will email out a moving date ☺

Our storage is located at: Public Storage, 6940 Shore Terrace Drive, Indianapolis, Indiana 46254. Please email shira_amos@hotmail.com or call me directly if you plan on dropping off items (812) 219-3555.

12:15pm - 1:15pm Can You Hear What I See: Intro to Deaf Culture (Lanette Boone, Nikita King)

This workshop was led by Dr. Marietta Alson-Williams, Rho Sigma Chapter. The purpose of this workshop is to demonstrate some basic information on how to communicate with individuals in the deaf community. In a very detailed and organized way, Soror Alson-Williams identified the basic signs of ASL.

- 1, Soror Alson-Williams provided us with the history of ASL.
 - The idea that Deaf people had a culture of their own was first written in the Dictionary of American Sign Language by William Stokoe, Carl Croneberg, and Dorothy Casterline.
 - Nonetheless, Deaf culture is exactly what Carol Padden defines as a culture: a set of learned behaviors of a group of people that share a language, values, rules for behavior, and traditions.
 - ASL is thought to have originated in the American School for the Deaf (ASD), founded in Hartford, Connecticut in 1817. Originally known as The American Asylum, At Hartford, For the Education And Instruction Of The Deaf And Dumb, the school was founded by the Yale graduate and divinity student Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet.
2. Soror Alson-Williams informed us that her chapter has two deaf Sorors that she brought in. one has been in the sorority for 15 years and one was inducted this year.
3. Soror Alson-Williams had us play a game where we got to see how a deaf person feels when we are talking with the knowledge that they are deaf and don't understand verbal communication. She showed us that reading lips isn't always a good way to communicate with other people when you are deaf you can often get partial information.
4. Soror Alson-Williams informed us what led her to obtain her certification for ASL. Soror Alson-Williams informed us that she also participates in the sign language ministry in her church.
5. Soror Alson-Williams encouraged Sorors to embrace the deaf community to get them out to our events and utilize the resources within our community for assistance with translation to the deaf community.
6. Soror Alson-Williams had each attendee sign My Name IS then our name. before leaving Soror Alson-Williams signed the song You Can Count On Me by Whitney Houston.

2:00pm - 3:00pm Inspire NOT Require (*Advisor Track) (TaMeca Joshua)

- This workshop was facilitated by Soror Nai Colton of Eta Xi Sigma Chapter and Central Region UCC, Loreal Marshall. This panel discussion provided an opportunity for advisors throughout the region to share different ideas and experiences as it pertains to undergraduate chapter advising.
- Five undergraduate advisors were selected to participate on the panel where they were asked questions as it relates to many of the challenges that are faced as an undergraduate advisor. One of the focus points was "Recruitment". What are some successful practices used by undergraduate chapters to recruit? One of the main tools utilized is the technology that this generation of sorors have become accustomed to. Social media is utilized the most to communicate most information as it pertains to all activities.
- Advisors feel that the undergraduate sorors could benefit from stepping outside of the social media box and implementing more personal methods of communication when it comes to recruitment. The idea is to get perspective interest to feel that the sorority is interested in them, so taking a more personal approach. Sending out personal invitations via email or calling interested young ladies to personally invite them out to events could create a higher level of excitement and enthusiasm.
- Another focus point of this workshop was "Retention". After you get them, how do you keep them? This particular topic was most engaging as most of the advisor reported most of the same issues. Some suggestions were:
 - Encouraging academic support
 - Keeping members engaged
 - Open communication
 - Unification
 - Allow them to take ownership in their planning and their processes

A point that many of the workshop attendees were able to agree on was the issue of the undergraduate sorors being burnt-out because of all of their obligations on their chapters. How do you battle the burn out? Some suggestions that were given:

- Give them permission to be tired
- Encourage them to cosponsor events
- Delegate program planning throughout the chapter

2:45pm - 4:00pm Road to Centennial (Karin Sarratt)

2:45pm - 3:45pm Behind Closed Doors: Dom Violence (Nikita King)

Alpha Sigma Chapter Delegates Report

78th Central Region Conference | Lincolnshire, IL | March 22-25, 2018

This workshop was led by Philo Renita Eslick, Alpha Lambda Sigma Chapter. In a very detailed and organized way, She identified the signs of abuse and provide tips on how to start the conversation with a family member or a friend in need.

1. Philo Eslick provided us with the statistics on domestic violence.
 - 1 out of 4 women will experience domestic violence in her lifetime.
 - 1 out of 3 women killed in this country are killed by their partners.
 - 25% of female suicides is due to family violence.
2. Philo Eslick asked a question which one affects women the most?
 - Breast Cancer
 - Ovarian Cancer
 - Lung Cancer
 - Domestic Violence - The one that affects women the most is domestic violence.
3. Knowing the signs of domestic violence
 - Their partner puts them down in front of other people
 - They are constantly worried about making their partner angry
 - They make excuses for their partner's behavior
 - Their partner is extremely jealous or possessive
 - They have unexplained marks or injuries
 - They've stopped spending time with friends and family
 - They are depressed or anxious, or you notice changes in their personality
4. What is Domestic Violence
 - According to the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence, one of the red-flag or telltale characteristics of an abuser is the desire to control all the finances.
 - Barriers that keep a victim from escaping a violent relationship include lack of means to support themselves and/or their children financially, while having a lack of access to cash, bank accounts or assets.
 - Financial abuse is when one partner takes control of or limits access to shared or individual assets, while limiting the earning potential of the victim, who becomes financially isolated. It fits into the larger strategy of power and control.
 - Some of the forms it can take:
 - Demanding that the victim quits a job.
 - Applying for credit cards, obtaining loans or opening accounts in a victim's name without their knowledge or consent. In other words, setting up a debt trap.
 - Forcing the victim to sign financial documents.
 - Refinancing a home mortgage or car loan without a victim's knowledge.
 - Deciding when or how the victim can access or use cash, bank accounts, or credit cards.
 - Forcing a victim to give the abuser money, ATM cards or credit cards.
 - Using a victim's checkbook, ATM card or credit cards without the victim's knowledge.
 - Some victims might feel they are unable to leave an abusive partner — or forced to return to an abusive partner — for economic reasons. There could be barriers to economic self-sufficiency, such as struggling to find a job or a place to live due to debt and poor credit scores.
 - According to the NCADV, between 94-99% of domestic violence survivors experienced some form of financial abuse.
5. Philo Eslick provided us with the National Domestic Violence Hotline at 1-800-799-7233
